State says day-long search for missing person was a ‘wild goose chase’

The Kentucky State Police assisted an out-of-state agency Thursday by giving support at a location on KY Hwy. 90.

An agency, which was not named and would not comment on the case they were working, brought dogs to search the woods in an area located just east of the KY Hwy. 90/Hwy. 558 intersection.

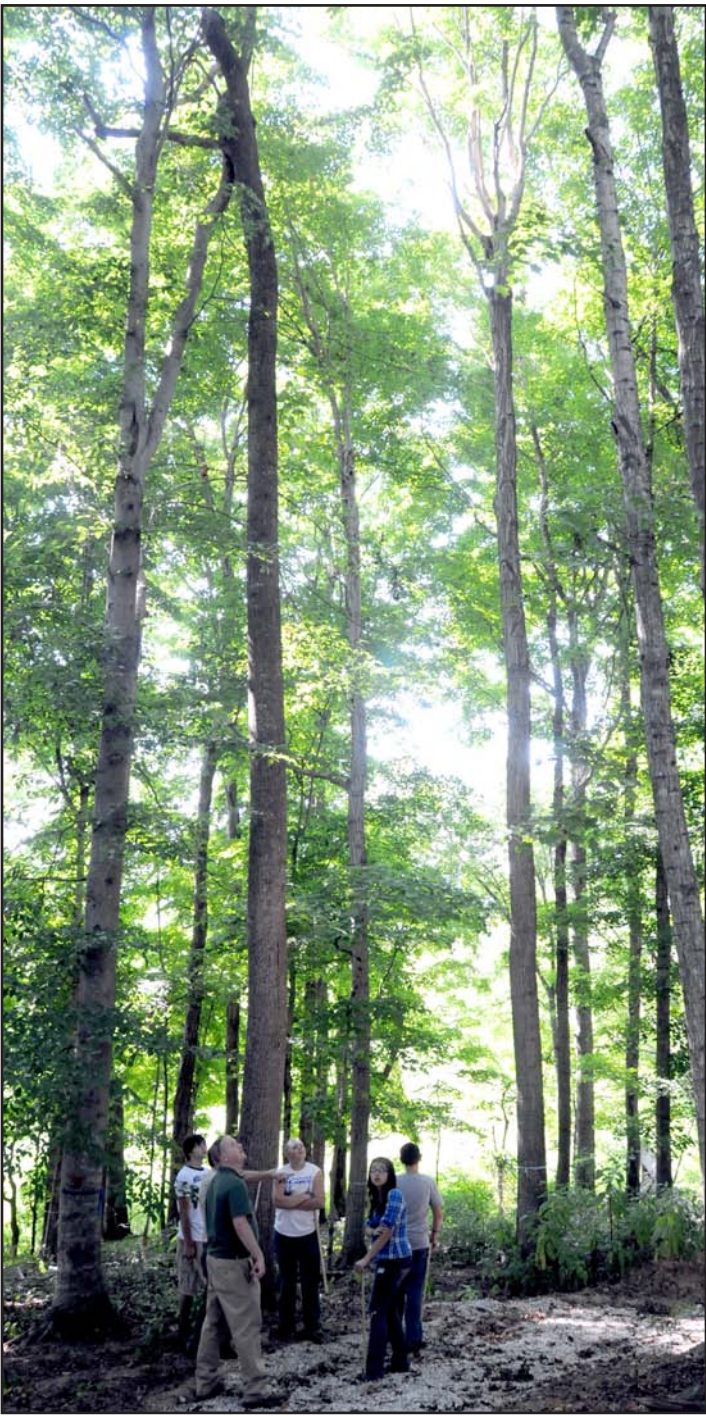

The area is commonly referred to as the “Hoot Owl Hollow” junction. The location being searched was across Ky. 90 from the The Bulldog Alley bowling alley, about five miles north of Albany.

“We were assisting an out-of-state agency so we will have no comment. My understanding is that they will not be doing a release,” KSP Public Affairs Officer Billy Gregory said in an e-mail response for information about the activity from the Clinton County News.

Gregory said the search was a “wild goose chase” that led to the discovery of dog bones and not human remains, as was earlier reported.

No official press release has been issued on the open case.

A team of dogs and their handlers scoped an area of KY. . 90 last Thursday, but nothing was found other than dog bones, according to Kentucky State Police Public Affairs Officer Billy Gregory of the Columbia Post. The day-long search by an out-of state agency that was not identified, was reportedly designed to locate a missing person in a still-open case.

FFA tree judging team performs well in premiere outing

The Clinton County High School Future Farmers of America chapter have been working for several weeks now to prepare for an event they have not participated in for many years.

On September 6, four Clinton County freshmen traveled to Taylor County to be part of a state tree judging competition.

Competing as a team, Clinton County placed fifth out of sixteen teams in its first competition and according to Forestry Officer Scott Shadoan, who has been working with the group to sharpen their skills, have vastly improved over the past several weeks.

“These four kids are the ones who have volunteered to do it,” Shadoan said. “They have stayed after school everyday for the past two weeks until five at the latest and they have all made Biltmore sticks themselves.”

Two weeks ago, the Forestry Judging Team spent the afternoon at Clinton County’s Tree Trail located behind the Clinton County Middle School.

Shadoan has been working on the tree trail for almost a year and taking the Forestry Judging Team through the trail is exactly what the trail was designed for.

“We worked on tree identification and showing them how to use the Biltmore stick which is something they will do in Taylor County,” Shadoan said. “I thought it would be good and the kids wanted to do it. We’ve got a good set of kids. They’ve all done really well at it and they’ve had fun with it.”

The Forestry Judging team consists of Levi Neathery, Ethan Daniels, Austin Shadoan and Shannelle Stinson. As a team, they scored 1,934 points. The winning team, McCreary Central, scored 2,128 points.

City to refinance bond loans

Albany City Council held its monthly meeting last Tuesday, September 4 with five of six members on hand. The city governing body renewed its property insurance policy and agreed to take part in a program to save several hundred thousand dollars in interest payments on water related bond projects, among other items of business.

The council had received only one bid on the city’s property insurance coverage for the next year, beginning in October, that being from the current policy provider, PMC, supplied locally by Jamie Sparks Insurance Agency.

The policy amount for the next year will be $70,137.20, up by about $7,000 from the current year’s cost.

Sparks noted that the company had increased

School board meets Monday

Clinton County Board of Education held its monthly meeting Monday night, September 10 with all board members on hand.

The board first recognized local 4-H students who had participated and exhibited their works at this year’s Kentucky State Fair in Louisville in August. The students displayed their exhibits to the board during the presentation.

CCHS Principal Sheldon Harlan and Athletic Director Mike Beard then explained the duties and responsibilities of a Bass Fishing Coach, should the local district opt to offer bass fishing as a competitive sport.

The board members seemed optimistic about offering such an added sports competition for students, but decided to get more information and discuss the liabilities, etc. that may be involved prior to making a final decision.

Cummings’ glass creations part of Chicago show

A Clinton County artist who for the past several years has been steadily making a name for himself in the art world, has once again taken his work on the road, this time displaying his works in a two-month long art show being held at a Chicago gallery.

Matthew Cummings, a 2001 graduate of Clinton County High School, discovered his love for the glass blowing medium while studying art at Centre College.

He graduated Centre with a Bachelor in Arts in glass and painting, and later earned his Master’s in Fine Arts from Illinois State University.

Since that time, he has spent his adult life furthering his glass blowing education, and taking his works around the globe to shows and galleries, in addition to maintaining a sculpture studio of his own in Louisville, Kentucky.

His latest show began this past weekend, September 7, at the Ken Saunders Gallery in Chicago, Illinois.

Cummings’ works will be part of a two-part show at the gallery that features his and the works of three other up and coming glass

Prevent falls

Source: Amy Hosier, UK extension specialist in family life

Anyone can fall, but the risk of falling and being seriously injured by a fall increases with age. One in three adults over the age of 65 falls each year, causing the majority of injury and injury-related deaths among seniors. National Falls Prevention Awareness Day is the first day of fall, Sept 22. This day brings attention to the seriousness of falls and the ways to prevent them.

Four simple ways to reduce the risk of a fall include exercise, healthy vision, safe home environments and smart medication usage.

Exercise, especially an activity that improves balance and coordination such as tai chi, is a key in preventing falls. Lifting weights can reduce the risk of a fall as it strengthens muscles and bones and helps you feel better and stronger. It's important to consult with a physician or health care provider before starting an exercise program to find one that is right for you.

It is normal for vision to change with age, but poor vision increases the chances of falling. You can minimize poor vision by having annual eye exams, maintaining and wearing the correct prescription glasses and contacts, and controlling your exposure to glare and changes in light.

More than half of all falls occur at home. Living in an unsafe or cluttered environment increases the risk of falls. To avoid accidents, make sure tripping hazards, such as a grandchild's toy or an extension cord, are off the floor. Proper lighting and appropriate shoes with non-slip soles and low heels are also helpful. It is also wise to wear an emergency alert button or keep a cell or cordless phone with you at all times in case of an emergency.

Finally, medication or a combination of medicines can sometimes have adverse effects that can make you feel dizzy or drowsy. It is important to have a physician or pharmacist review all prescription and over-the-counter medications to help reduce the risk of falling.

The fear of falling is also a risk factor for falls. Sometimes people become inactive or socially isolated because they fear falling. If you find yourself in this situation, let your physician know. Your physician may help you get to the root of your fear or even refer you to a physical therapist who can design an exercise program to meet your needs.

The University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service offers two fall prevention programs, Stand Up to Falling and A Matter of Balance. These programs aim to educate participants about the risk of falling and teach ways to prevent falls and the fear of falling in order to help older adults stay safer and more independent as they age.

For more information about fall prevention education or UK fall prevention programs, contact the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service.

Educational programs of the Cooperative Extension Service serve all people regardless of race, color, sex, religion, disability or national origin.

Albany Manor earns top ranking

The staff at Albany Manor, a family apartment complex located in South Albany, learned last week that it had scored the best possible rating - a 100 A - following an extensive inspection conducted by the Department of Housing and Urban Development Real Estate Assessment Center (REAC).

"It took a lot of hard work and long hours not only by me, but help from other properties to make this happen," said Pam Turner, the manager of the Albany facility. "It was a team effort and it certainly paid off."

The inspection included health and safety issues, cleanliness, conditions of the buildings and other numerous areas. The facility is managed by NDC Reas Estate Management Company, Inc., a Pittsburgh, PA company.

"I'm proud to achieve this award, but most of all to have an apartment complex that offers safe and affordable housing, in a family setting for people in Albany and surrounding counties," Turner said.

Clinton County was only two points shy of moving into the fourth spot, which was earned by Whitley County with 1,935 points.

Individually, Neathery finished with a score of 659, followed by Stinson's 640, Austin Shadoan's 635 and Daniels rounded out scoring with a 617. The top three scores from each team qualified for the total score.

FFA advisor Matt Johnson was impressed with the team's results.

"I think they did very well, especially with the lack of time they had. We prepared in three weeks, which is hard after school begins. They did very well. I was pleased. They represented the school and the FFA very well. I'm proud of them," Johnson said.

The purpose of the event is to teach students which trees are in their native area. There are several subcategories the students were scored on in order to combine the points for a team total.

"We will be cruising timber and identifying tools used in forestry," Johnson said.

The Forestry Judging Team's next event will be in October when they travel to Ohio for a competition.

"I can't say enough about about how appreciative I am that Scott (Shadoan) helped us. He knows so much about it. I've learned a lot about it just by being there with the kids," Johnson said.

Forestry Officer Scott Shadoan took four freshmen along the Tree Trail located behind the Clinton County Middle School two weeks ago in order to prepare them for the State Forestry Judging Competition in Taylor County on September 6.

(A separate article on the new sport being offered by KHSAA in the state and possibly at a local level as well, will appear in next week's Clinton County News.)

After approving minutes of three separate meetings, the board, on a motion by Kevin Marcum, voted to grant a family medical leave of absence for Angela Renee Polston from September 10 through October 31, 2012.

On a motion by Junior Cecil, the board also granted a family medical (maternity) leave for Yvonne Morgan from August 29 of this year through November 6.

The board then approved between meeting disbursements and voted to pay claims and bills.

Superintendent Charlotte Bernard then gave the monthly personnel report, as follows:

- * Substitute teachers: Jelina Melton and Tracie Brown, district wide and Robyn Warinner at the ECC.

- * Certified hired: Nathan Garner, boys' and girls' golf coach at the middle school.
- * Transfers: David Dorn and Greg Cummings from full-time substitute bus drivers to regular drivers.

The board then voted to give permission to Monticello Banking Company to use the school logo and colors on debit cards or credit cards that will be used by customers (on a voluntary basis) of the bank at no cost to the school district.

The board approved the Indirect Cost Report for the 2012-13 school year. The Non-Restricted Indirect Cost Rate is 10.63; the Restricted Indirect Cost Rate is 0.66.

Due to a state mandated professional day for teachers, the school calendar was amended to switch a class day to a professional day.

Because of the training date scheduled for next Wednesday, September 19, students will be out of class that day and will make up that day missed by attending class next April 8, 2013.

Director of Transportation Larry Koger then addressed the board about a radio frequency change, due to an FCC (Federal Communications Commission) mandate that will take effect the first of next year.

Several of the current radios will not pick up the new frequency and about 14 radios for buses are needed, plus some hand held units for each school. Board member Cecil also recommended a portable be supplied to each School Resource Officer as well to be able to communicate in an emergency situation where regular landline and cell phones won't pick up.

Koger had gotten price estimates for the radios needed at $7,236 plus $400 per portable radio. The total cost for all needed, including supplying SRO's with the radios, would be just under $11,000.00.

A motion was made by board member Paula Key to purchase the radios so they could be installed prior to the new year. The motion passed by unanimous vote.

Finally, Director of Pupil Personnel Julie Daniels gave a report on the first month's school attendance. She noted that attendance was up across the board in the district, including at all three schools, compared to the same month last year. The school with the highest attendance the first month was Clinton County Middle School and the school with the most improved attendance was Clinton County High School.

The next regular meeting of the Clinton County Board of Education is scheduled for Monday, October 8 at 5 p.m. at the Central Office board room. The meeting is open to the general public.

Forestry Officer Scott Shadoan, right, explained the traits of a tree along Clinton County's Tree Trail two weeks ago. Future Farmers of America Advisor Matt Johnson, center, said he is very happy with the way the team performed in the Forestry Judging State competition held last week in Taylor County. Clinton County finished fifth out of 16 teams. The team is comprised of Levi Neathery, Austin Shadoan, Ethan Daniels and Shannelle Stinson.

WAYNE CO. OUTLOOK Monticello

Wayne County Sheriff Charles Boston remained hospitalized at the University of Kentucky Medical Center on Friday, August 31, following a two-vehicle accident that occurred two days earlier in Laurel County.

The two-vehicle accident apparently occurred on Wednesday, August 29 at approximately 5:30 p.m., according to a press release issued by the Laurel County Sheriff's Department.

Deputy Shawn Boroviak stated that Sheriff Boston was operating a Chevrolet Corvette and pulled from White Oak Road into the path of a Mustang that was traveling east on Somerset Road in London, Kentucky.

The Mustang was driven by Davan R. Smith, 33, of Somerset Road, London.

Sheriff Boston and his wife, Phyllis, were both injured in the crash.

The couple was taken to St. Joseph Hospital at London.

Phyllis Boston was treated for her injuries and released.

Sheriff Boston was taken by helicopter to the University of Kentucky Trauma Center.

Smith and a passenger in the Mustang, Travis McQueen, 38, of Lily, were also injured in the crash and were transported to St. Joseph Hospital for treatment.

Wayne County Schools took a longer than normal break for the Labor Day holiday, after discovering a small mercury leak in a science lab at the high school.

School officials decided to call off classes on Friday, August 31 as a precaution.

According to a statement released by the school, at the end of the school day on Thursday, August 30, it was discovered that a barometer had leaked a small amount of mercury onto a counter top in a science lab at Wayne County High School.

As soon as the spill was discovered, officials with the Kentucky Department for Environmental Protection were contacted and came on site to perform an assessment.

Mercury levels in the building were determined to be well below those which might cause adverse health effects.

A private contractor was brought in to conduct a clean-up of the spill.

School was dismissed on Friday to allow specialists into the building to conduct clean-up and monitoring efforts, according to the statement.

Commonwealth's Attorney Matthew Leveridge, who represents the 57th Judicial Circuit, is the recipient of the 2012 Outstanding Commonwealth's Attorney Award, which was presented by Attorney General Jack Conway.

Leveridge was recognized at the Kentucky Prosecutor's Conference at the Lexington Convention Center.

Leveridge represents Wayne and Russell counties.

"Matthew has prosecuted thousands of cases, including approximately 10 murder cases. He is currently prosecuting the case of a toddler who died after drinking chemicals used to manufacture meth. Matthew never turns down a special prosecution and is a tremendous asset to the prosecutorial system and to the residents of Russell and Wayne counties," stated Conway.

Lynn Pryor, Commonwealth's Attorney for the 3rd Judicial Circuit, was also presented an award for 2012 Outstanding Commonwealth's Attorney Award by Conway.

The recipients of the 2012 Outstanding County Attorney Awards were Marc Robbins of Madison County and William "Bill" Hagenbuch of Allen County.

Conway expressed his appreciation to all of the members of Kentucky's prosecutorial community who work every day to make communities safer places to live, work and raise families.

More than 700 prosecutors, staff members, as well as law enforcement from across Kentucky attended the three day conference, which was sponsored by the Office of the Attorney General and the Prosecutors Advisory Council.

Bears have become a fairly common sight in several parts of Wayne County this year, and several local residents have reported problems with the animals becoming quite bold in areas populated by people.

The Outlook has received photos of several bear sightings in the county, the most recent ones from Wendell Johnson who has photos of numerous bears, including a mother with three cubs and another one with two cubs, that were taken in the Mt. Pisgah area of the county.

Johnson and other residents of that community have had trouble with bears prowling on their property. Johnson said a bear had actually been on the porch of his residence.

"They are not hiding," said Johnson, as he talked about the bears he has seen. "They are out in daylight."

He guessed there were about 25 bears in the Mt. Pisgah area of the county, and noted that the animals do not appear to be afraid to linger in areas where people are located, which has basically made them a nuisance to many.

"I can't even get out on my four-wheeler in the Mt. Pisgah area without seeing a bear," said Johnson.

Tim Catron, captain with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife, said that the agency has received several reports of black bears in Wayne County this year, particularly a large concentration in the eastern portion of the county. But he added that sightings have been scattered around the county.

The biggest reason bears are moving into areas populated by people is the search for food. Because of weather conditions, the animals' food supply is low this year in the wilderness and Catron explained that they are becoming bolder as they search for something to eat.

"In most areas of eastern Kentucky, this summer's wild berry crop disappeared quickly," said Steven Dobey, bear biologist for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "This is a very important food source for this time of year and with it gone, bears are roaming extensively in search of alternate foods."

Catron said the best thing people can do to keep bears away from their homes is to make sure garbage is kept in a secure container and out of reach of the animals. Keep all food, including animal food, out of their reach as well. When they find nothing to eat, he said the animals will move on.

He also said no one should try to approach a bear, because they are a dangerous animal and should be respected as such.

Anyone who sees a bear can contact officials in Frankfort to report the location. The number is 1-800-858-1549. The sighting will become part of a computerized map, which allows officials to keep track of activity.

strong odor of an intoxicating beverage about her, was unsteady on her feet, and had red, watery eyes.

"From the passenger side of the vehicle, I observed a small child in the vehicle that was unrestrained and walking around inside the vehicle," the officer's report said. The mother was arrested and the Department of Children's Services was notified and located a relative of the woman to take custody of her children.

Warrants on file in the case allege that Xum "did have in her possession a Republic of Guatemala identification card" and that she also had "five empty beer containers and one full" in her vehicle.

Xum was booked into the Putnam County Jail, where her total bond was set at $24,000. She has a September 24 court date.

A mom who was in Cookeville over the weekend for visitation with her young son got arrested after leaving the boy alone in a motel room while she went partying, police said.

Jennifer Ann Perron, 29, of Stinson St., Milan, Tennessee, is charged with child neglect in the case, says a report by Cookeville Police Officer Brandon Tayes.

Someone at the Clarion Inn on S. Jefferson Ave. called police on Friday night, August 31, to report "an abandoned child," the officer said.

"Upon arrival, I found (the child) to be running around the hotel. He stated that he didn't know where his mom went. He said she left him and that she had been gone for some time."

The officer checked the woman's rented room and found that her belongings were still in the room.

Later, Jennifer Ann Perron did return to the hotel and the officer confronted her.

"I observed she was a passenger in a gold Honda Civic," the report says. "She was dropped off and the car left. She had a strong odor of alcohol on her person and stated that she had just went out to get a soda."

But allegedly, she soon changed her story, saying she had gone to see the child's father, then changed it again and said she had been visiting a friend.

"It was later discovered that she had left the night before to go to the bar and never returned until the next morning," the report says.

She stated that she started out at the Half Time bar and went to other places from there. She ended up leaving a bar with an unknown couple and stayed the night with them. She stated she got really drunk and made a big mistake."

Perron does not have custody of her son and was only there for a weekend visit with him, the report says.

The boy's father, who does have custody, was notified and he came to get the child and took him home.

Perron was booked into the Putnam County Jail, where her bond was set at $25,000. She has an October 22 court date.

THE HERALD CITIZEN Cookeville, TN

A Lancing, Tennessee man was killed and eight others injured in a traffic crash involving three vehicles in Clarkrange on Labor Day, Monday, September 3, according to the Tennessee Highway Patrol.

It happened at 1:55 p.m. on Highway 127, says a report by State Trooper Stanley Roberts.

Killed in the crash was Denver E. Bustle, 64, of Rome Road, Lancing, Tennessee. A passenger in his truck, Elton Bustle, 66, of Lancing, was injured.

Bustle was driving a 2007 Chevrolet pickup south on Highway 127 and while negotiating a curve, crossed the highway's center line and sideswiped a northbound 2007 Chevrolet SK1 pickup, causing that vehicle to run off the road and strike a phone box and then a tree, the trooper's report says.

Bustle's pickup then continued across the highway and was struck on the right by a 2012 Toyota 4-Runner which was traveling north, the report says.

The driver of the Chevrolet SK1 pickup was Stephanie L. Copeland, 58, of Coyote Trail, Allardt, Tennessee. She was injured, and so were five passengers in her vehicle. The THP report lists the passengers as Billy Copeland, 42, Lorean Crabtree, 66, and three juvenile boys ages eight, seven, and one, all of Allardt.

The third vehicle, the Toyota, was driven by Henry S. Breiner, Sr., 70, of Willow Lake Drive, Jamestown. He was injured.

All occupants of the three vehicles were using seat belts and the infant in the Copeland vehicle was in a properly used child restraint device, the trooper said.

THP Sgt. Billy Pierce also assisted in the investigation.

When a woman showed up allegedly drunk at an elementary school to pick up her child, school officials called police.

It happened Friday afternoon, August 31 at Jere Whitson Elementary.

After a brief investigation, the Cookeville Police Department arrested Giselda Xum, 31, of Lee Ave., Cookeville, charging her with DUI, having an open container of alcohol, reckless endangerment, and evading arrest.

Officer Anthony Nash said Jere Whitson Elementary School officials notified police after Xum showed up there Friday afternoon to pick up her child.

She smelled of alcohol and had an open container in her vehicle, school officials told police.

When someone at the school questioned her, she drove off without picking up her child, the report says.

Officer Nash soon located the vehicle traveling on Willow Avenue and followed it as it turned east onto 12th Street.

The vehicle crossed the center line and Nash activated his car's emergency equipment attempting to make a stop.

But the driver did not stop and continued on to Dixie Avenue, turned east onto 15th Street and finally stopped at 15th and Woodland, the report says.

Officer Nash found the driver to be Giselda Xum, who had a

Soccer team falls to Whitley, ties with Hart County

Ethridge Delk used his head to control the ball during Tuesday’s game against Whitley County on September 4. Clinton County lost the game by a final score of, 2-1. The Soccer Dawgs played Hart County on Saturday, September 8 and tied in that game, 2-2.

Gridiron Dawgs move to 0-4 on the year, host Caverna Friday

The Clinton County Bulldogs didn’t come home with a win after Friday night’s game against Casey County, 52-8.

“We never sustained a true drive, but we would get a couple of first downs and then have to punt,” Head Coach Jamie Miller said. “We took care of the football pretty well. We only had one turnover. We just couldn’t stop them on defence.”

In recent week’s, Miller said turnovers are the one thing his team had been plagued with. During the previous two years, Trimble County has defeated the Bulldogs in games Clinton County has a real chance to pick up a win and Miller said turnovers are like shooting yourself in the foot. During both games against Trimble County, Clinton County’s turnovers have determined the outcome. Miller hopes to take care of the football against Caverna this week.

“We are working on being smart and taking care of the football,” Miller said. “Caverna is another team that if we play smart and take care of the football then it’s going to be a good game for us. I think we’ve had only one turnover during the past two games, so that’s pretty positive.”

Miller said Casey County was a very physical team and always has been. In the past, several players have been injured during the Casey County game and Miller said that’s due to their strength.

“I had told them all year that Casey County was very physical and that was obvious because they mauled us up front. It all goes back to the weight room,” Miller said. “Their first play went about 40 yards and their second play went about 30 yards, then they stuck it in the end zone.”

One bright spot for Clinton County Football is the Bulldogs have scored in every game this season, including last week’s game against Casey County.

Cole Nelson caught a pass for a touchdown and Tristan Lehman ran the ball in for a two-point conversion.

Clinton County’s game this Friday night will be against Caverna, which will start a four-game home stretch for the Bulldogs.

Following this week’s game, Clinton County will host Metcalfe County, Glasgow and Middletown Christian out of Ohio.

“Metcalfe, two weeks from now, will be our first district game,” Miller said. “We have to focus on Caverna right now and try to go out and play the best we can and have a chance to win a football game. I think Caverna is down in numbers. The team who makes the fewest mistakes and takes care of the football will probably come out on top.”

Friday night’s game will be homecoming for Clinton County with those festivities beginning before kick off which is 7 p.m.

Hilltoppers and Wildcats gear up for Governor's Cup Redux

Governor's Cup Redux is Saturday in Lexington.

Coming in Week 3, this one has the entertainment value of any season opener and, says here a UK-WKU series is more geographically attractive than any college football game in Jefferson County.

These days, Western Kentucky is a D-I climber willing to take a thump and donut hole in Tuscaloosa to upgrade its rep and respect; Kentucky is an SEC clinger trying to W wherever it can to get back to middle-of-the-pack.

At stake? Must win for one program, respect for the other. You decide which is which, but not too quickly.

Western Kentucky and Kentucky at Commonwealth Stadium in Week 3 is a Natural that could/should be a first month, but not first week, fixture.

Goals? For Kentucky, fill those 19,596 empty seats at Commonwealth Stadium last week. Hilltopper fans and Kentucky having put 47 points on the board last week, "ought to do it."

Western donated four touchdowns to the Crimson Tide via turnover, and Kentucky's 89th ranked defense gave up 409 total yards to a MAC team, spawns promise that fans could see, well, A Show in Governor's Cup Redux.

Coming to the start line, the Hilltoppers are 'Bama bruised, but will have watched a game film that shows Kent State pushed Kentucky's defense around much as Louisville did.

Inspired by Sun Belt rival Louisiana-Monroe's stunner in Little Rock last week, Western should be primed.

The Wildcats? Turns out a Maxwell Smith-run offense is worth the time and ticket price.

So, Week 3, Governor's Cup Redux. Perfect.

ELSEWHERE

Putting aside ugly run-up-score-to-help-our-ranking by Tennessee, 51-13 over Georgia State and Oklahoma 69-13 over Florida A&M, the college season's fun began last weekend.

•AT LOUISVILLE. Coach Charlie Strong follows his instincts, sniff out and nip trouble in the bud. Sensing his team was growing too smug, too soon, the Cardinals coach reportedly blistered his team before and after beating lightweight Missouri State.

Good news for Louisville fans – the Cards are 2-0, ranked 19th in America and up for an ABC/ESPN television date this week. The better news came from Tobacco Road. North Carolina, UofL's next foe, surrendered 362 passing yards and 426 total in a 28-27 loss to Wake Forest moving Tar Heels coach Larry Fedora to say "I didn't see too much pressure on the quarterback the whole night. I didn't see anybody close to any receivers. It will be interesting to see on film."

Teddy Bridgewater will be interested in the film too.

• AT LEXINGTON, Kentucky turned in a season opening performance six days late. The Wildcats sputtered early, but Kent followed the script.

Fans grown weary of Joker Phillips' "... we're awfully young" talk just before or just after his "you're either for us or against us," remark, got an eye-ful. The Wildcats are young, but talented and deep in places that promise dividends.

Prime among them, sophomore quarterback Smith. Poise, good decisions and efficiency are bringing him Tim Couch comparisons.

Second-year man Raymond Sanders rushed for 115 yards and didn't fumble. Surprise Department? Receiver Aaron Boyd arrived apparently from another planet – 11 catches, 100 yards, a touchdown.

Defense? Rick Minter's bunch was disorganized and poor early against Kent, better after half-time and swaggered by the fourth quarter when the visitors had surrendered.

Bottom line? Joker's offense is coming, but 409 yards offense by a MAC team at home, equals no improvement from Week One. With Florida, South Carolina and Mississippi State coming, Minter had better find solutions or find a new line of work.

Lone eye sore in Lexington last Saturday? Commonwealth Stadium barely qualified as our state's third largest city. 48,346 paid Mitch Barnhart prices to see a season opener on an evening God made for humans to be outdoors. For 19,596 empty seats, the man who raised ticket prices, took a sack.

• AT TUSCALOOSA, Western Kentucky took its medicine, but beat the point spread. Despite four turnovers which Alabama turned into scores, the Hilltoppers acquitted themselves reasonably and kept a measure of poise in front of more fans a Western team had seen ever, 101,821. A ticket sale bonanza for the Tide that left us hoping WKU negotiated a percentage of the gate instead of flat rate. Dream on.

• Thing of beauty: Louisiana-Monroe stunned No. 8 Arkansas in overtime in Little Rock. A result that should not be lost on fans in Kentucky.

Kentucky plays the Hogs two days before Big Blue Madness. Western Kentucky gets Louisiana-Monroe for Hilltopper homecoming, October 20.

• Georgia and Florida gave Missouri and Texas A&M a proper welcome to the Southeastern Conference.

PARTING SHOT

Headline read: John Calipari Unveils 'New Gold Standard' at Kentucky.

From his internet site, Kentucky's coach was crowing about the posh new home for basketball players last week, Coal Lodge.

Reactions from Wildcat fans are mixed. One of my favorites came from Eric Lynch in Wolfe County.

"The Coal industry makes outrageous profits for its executives and pays the hard-working coal miners very little all while destroying our mountains and wildlife habitats. Why you guys think (bleeping) on the little man, poisoning the air, adulterating our water and destroying our land is a boon for this state I'll never know.

"They certainly won't be doing anything for Kentucky or its people once they've raped us of all our natural resources. There's not a single chance I'll ever refer to the Wildcat Lodge with an acknowledgement to coal. For the record, before you disparage me as an outsider, my people go back to the early 1800s in Wolfe County."

Comment: Thank you. And so it goes.

Clinton County's Jeff Brown sent this put toward the hole on Monday, September 10 at Dale Hollow State Resort Park. Clinton County played Cumberland County and Wayne County in the tri-match.

Still a busy time for local fall sports teams

All of the fall sports teams at C.C.H.S. continue to have a busy stretch right now, as all programs are in full swing - something that will change in the next few weeks as some begin winding down and headed toward tourney time - with golf being the first.

I spent the afternoon Monday walking around with the Golf Dawgs during the match, grabbing a few photos, and the fall-like weather made for some nice golf surroundings. Unfortunately, the Lady Golf Dawgs' match was cancelled that afternoon by the other teams that were originally slated to appear. Coach Starnes took advantage of the open date to let her team get in a full afternoon of practice.

Soccer fans should take note that a few changes have been made to the schedule recently, according to info sent our way by C.C.H.S. Athletics Director Mike Beard.

First of all, the games are now to be played at the Clinton County Middle School field, instead of a previously reported location at the high school football field.

A game this past Monday was cancelled and an upcoming game this Saturday, September 15 for both the boys' and girls' squads at Butler County has also been cancelled.

Our Gridiron Dawgs will put their traveling uniforms in storage for a few weeks as they begin a four-game home stand this Friday night, September 14, when they play host to a 1A team - Caverna - in a night that will also see Homecoming festivities being held on Bulldog Field.

The Dawgs (0-4) are looking for their first victory of this season, and are coming off of 52-8 loss at the hands of Casey County this past Friday night. Likewise, the Colonels of Caverna are looking for win #1 this season, having given up a 14-0 loss at the hands of Hart County in its most recent outing last Friday night.

Two losses in one week

Kentucky High School sports fans should note the loss of two well-recognized figures in the past week - one a state-wide recognized individual, and the other more of a local - or at least regional - figure.

Former KHSAA Commissioner Louis Stout, who had been affiliated with the association for some 30 years, including his eight-year run as the chief of the organization, passed away this past Sunday morning from what the family called a "heart incident".

Stout joined the KHSAA in 1971, and since my first Sweet 16 was in 1976, I grew up - and grew old - watching the large figure roam the sidelines of each and every tournament, meeting and greeting, and taking care of any situation that arose throughout the years. I don't think I ever heard anyone say anything negative about Mr. Stout. One of the best Commissioners the KHSAA ever had - says here.

When he died, he was in his second year as National President of the Amateur Athletic Association (AAU).

The second passing this week was that of an individual that local fans - particularly basketball fans - will recognize. Gerald "Jerry" Hamm, a Russell County native and a Bowling Green resident - passed away last week at age 76.

Jerry was a long-time basketball official that local fans would immediately recognize when they saw him, since fans generally don't remember officials' names.

Handicapped with just one eye - he had to have a good sense of humor and thick skin every time he put that whistle around his neck.

Hamm was officiating when I played back in the mid 70's - what little floor time I received - and I confronted him one night after a game when we met up in the parking lot. Of course I disagreed with several fouls he had whistled me for.

Luckily, a couple of years ago - I ran into him at the Sweet 16, and I reminded him of that night - then, some 35 years later, I apologized for being young and stupid.

He recognized me from my years on the sidelines as a P.A. announcer here, and luckily not for the night our paths crossed in the parking lot.

We both had a good laugh, and talked for a long time as he asked about people in Clinton County he remembered, in particular Coach Lindle Castle.

I'm glad I had that chance to shake his hand and pat his back.

the city's property values by around four percent, which is about a standard amount. He also said the city has added three to four vehicles to its fleet which is added in the next year's rate. Also, the city did have some claims earlier in the year as the result of late winter and spring storms.

Mayor Nicky Smith and most council members also noted they had been pleased with the service the insurance company had provided over the past year, and on a motion by Councilman James "Smitty" Smith, voted unanimously to renew the coverage with PMC Insurance.

The council then heard from Dwight Salsbury of Ross and Sinclair Associates pertaining to a program that would allow cities and municipalities in Kentucky to lower interest rates they are currently paying on bond payments through USDA-Rural Development for water related projects through the RD's loan program.

Salsbury noted there was a pool of funding cities could utilize working with the Kentucky League of Cities. Rates being paid on the current bonds may be reduced to about 3.3 percent, as opposed to the current rate the city of Albany is paying on average at 4.639 percent.

The refinancing of the loans at a lower rate would not only save the city an estimated $821,000 over the term of the bond pay-off, but would also cut the amount of years the city would have to pay on the current bonding. The current bond loan payback is through the year 2046 and under the refinancing program, would be cut back to 2038, according to Salsbury.

No action on the issue was required at last week's meeting, as Salsbury said the only thing the city would need to do would be to approve two resolutions, one to enter into the program and another joining the League of Cities. He said a resolution would be forwarded to the mayor and presented for consideration at the council's next regular monthly meeting.

David Bowles of Monarch Engineering then gave a brief update of the utility line relocation projects that are ongoing.

The city is still awaiting a change order from the Department of Transportation to relocate a three-inch water line along Mountain Drive. This location falls in the first phase of the bypass relocation project.

The second phase, from south Highway 127 at Highway 1590 near the radio station to Highway 969 southward to the Duvall Valley area is 99 percent complete and engineers are also waiting on a Department of Transportation change order for full completion of that phase.

The third and final phase of the utility relocation, as of early last week, was already 58 percent complete, with final completion expected before the end of the year. That phase is located on U.S. 127 beginning at Highway 969 near the Spring Creek Bridge and extends to the Tennessee state line.

In other business, the council:

* Held an approximate 20-minute closed session to discuss personnel but took no action upon returning to open session.

* Mayor Smith announced to the council that Pauline Conner had invited the council members to the annual Clinton County Farm Bureau membership meeting on Thursday, September 13 at 6 p.m. at the Clinton County Fairgrounds building.

* Councilwoman Tonya Thrasher invited the mayor and council members to the annual Clinton County Drug Forum that will be held Friday, September 21 from 9 a.m. to 12 noon at Albany First Baptist Church. Lunch will also be provided.

* Thrasher also asked for volunteers to help make ribbons to place around Albany next month in remembrance of Aleigha Duvall, the child who was killed in a tragic Halloween night accident last year.

* Mayor Smith also reminded the council and the public about the "Meet the Mayor" dates, which are held from 8 to 10 a.m. the second Saturday of each month.

The public is invited to have coffee and donuts with the mayor in his office on those days and discuss any issues or concerns they may have.

The next Meet the Mayor date will be Saturday, October 13.

The next regular meeting of Albany City Council is scheduled for Tuesday, October 2 at 5 p.m. at city hall and is open to the public.

Clinton schools to be involved in High Attendance Day for Kentucky Schools on September 18, 2012

Based on the belief that school attendance is crucial to successful education, the Kentucky Directors of Pupil Personnel are sponsoring a “High Attendance Day” for all schools across the commonwealth on Tuesday, Sept. 18, 2012, and all schools in Clinton County will be working toward a high attendance goal, according to Julie Daniels, Director of Pupil Personnel for the Clinton County School District. On High Attendance Day each school in the state can compete in one of three categories: elementary, middle, or high school. Awards will be determined statewide based on each individual school’s performance, regardless of district. The school in each category with the highest percentage attendance for that day will win T-shirts commemorating the achievement and the school will be awarded $500. “I hope that teachers, administrators, and students across our school district will help bring attention to this important topic, every day and especially on ‘High Attendance Day’ Tuesday, Sept. 18th by arriving to school on time and staying at school for the entire day,” Daniels said this week in an email press release to the Clinton County News. “Even more importantly, I hope that students and parents will join us in this effort throughout the school year, because it will have a positive impact not only on the education and future of our students, but of our entire state,” Daniels added. Research shows that poor school attendance is one of the top predictors of high school drop-outs, even when the student is in elementary school and dropping out doesn’t occur for several years. A student can’t learn if that student isn’t in class. The entire purpose of ‘High Attendance Day’ is to raise awareness of the importance of school attendance.

Livestock producers affected by disasters urged to keep good records

Potential assistance depending on accurate, timely data for expedited help

USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) State Executive Director, John W. McCauley recently urged livestock producers affected by natural disasters such as Hurricane Isaac and the continuing drought to keep thorough records of their livestock and feed losses, including additional expenses for such things as feed purchases because of lost supplies. “There are extraordinary circumstances caused by a variety of disasters from fires in the west, floods in Florida, Hurricane Isaac in the Gulf region, storms in the Mid-Atlantic and drought and heat affecting the heartland,” McCauley said. “Each of these events is causing economic consequences for ranchers and producers including cattle, sheep and dairy operations, bee keepers and farm-raised fish, and poultry producers.” FSA recommends that owners and producers record all pertinent information of natural disaster consequences, including: · Documentation of the number and kind of livestock that have died, supplemented if possible by photographs or video records of ownership and losses; · Dates of death supported by birth recordings or purchase receipts; · Costs of transporting livestock to safer grounds or to move animals to new pastures; and · Feed purchases if supplies or grazing pastures are destroyed. McCauley also reminds producers that the department’s authority to operate the five disaster assistance programs authorized by the 2008 Farm Bill expired on Sept. 30, 2011. This includes SURE; the Livestock Indemnity Program (LIP); the Emergency Assistance for Livestock, Honey Bees, and Farm-Raised Fish (ELAP); the Livestock Forage Disaster Program (LFP); and the Tree Assistance Program (TAP). Production losses due to disasters occurring after Sept. 30, 2011, are not eligible for disaster program. Producers are encouraged to contact their local FSA County office for additional information.

Rains from Isaac give soybeans a boost

By Katie Pratt Remnants of Hurricane Isaac provided much needed moisture for most of the state’s soybean crop, said Chad Lee, grain crops specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

For most of the 2012 growing season, rainfall events have been few and far between. According to the Sept. 4 U.S. Drought Monitor, much of Western Kentucky remains in a severe to exceptional drought. The area received about two inches of rainfall from the remnants of Isaac the weekend of Sept. 1. Eastern and Central Kentucky received between 0.5 and one inch of rainfall from Isaac.

“The fact that the rains came over several days and were relatively gentle means that most soils captured most of the water,” Lee said. “That should help with seed fill and yields, but it’s probably too late to boost the number of seeds on the plants. The beans furthest from maturity will benefit the most.”

According to the Sept. 4 Kentucky Weekly Crop and Weather Report, only five percent of the state’s soybean crop was mature and 22 percent was dropping leaves. That means the other 78 percent of the crop will likely see some benefit from the rainfall, Lee said. The report also listed 47 percent of the crop in very poor to poor condition and 49 percent in fair to good condition. “These rains give us a chance of getting decent yields,” he said. “Soybean yields should be much closer to normal than corn yields.” For soybeans close to full seed, this may be all the rain they need to reach maturity. Soybeans in earlier development stages will need at least one more rain to produce decent yields, Lee said.

UK researcher studies historical re-enactors and their dress

By Katie Pratt
 It has been more than 150 years since the first battle of the Civil War, but it is estimated that thousands of individuals spend billions of dollars each year to participate in or attend Civil War reenactments.

Kim Miller-Spillman, an associate professor in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, has spent her career researching historical re-enactors to learn the importance of period clothing in recreating historical events and in their lives.

"I've always had a fascination with how we can become somebody else by changing what we wear," she said. "There are so many groups in which adults dress in costume for fun and fantasy. We know that children like to play dress-up, but our knowledge of adults dressing in costume is somewhat limited."

By surveying re-enactors, Miller-Spillman learned that they come in all age ranges, occupations, education levels and income levels. For women, the most common age range was between 46 and 53. The most common occupation was in the professional category, which included nurses, doctors and lawyers. More women respondents listed a college degree than any other education level, and their most common annual income was between $50,000 and $74,999.

The most common age range of male respondents was between 42 and 45 years old. Like the women, most male re-enactor respondents held professional jobs, and more male re-enactors listed college as their highest educational attainment than any other education level. The most common average income male re-enactors reported was between $35,000 and $49,999.

Re-enacting can be an expensive hobby. In her research, Miller-Spillman found the majority of men and women re-enactors spend between $1,000 and $3,999 on their period clothing, artillery and accessories. Both report they purchase most of their clothing through sutlers, merchants who sell Civil War-related merchandise at re-enactments.

Miller-Spillman asked re-enactors how important having the correct attire was to the hobby and to be able to experience a magic moment where participants feel like they've returned to the 1860s and are witnessing the battle firsthand.

Like their varying demographics, Civil War re-enactors listed a variety of reasons behind their interest in historically accurate Civil War clothing. Some of the most common reasons men listed were a love of history, fun and enjoyment and a requirement for participating in re-enactments. The most common reasons for women were the opportunity to escape and being able to assume another persona.

Of male respondents, 85 percent had a magic moment while re-enacting. For women, 53 percent of respondents said they have had a magic moment. The majority of those who have had such moments said historically accurate clothing was critical to making that happen.

Miller-Spillman will present her research Oct. 21 at Transylvania University as part of a Civil War Speakers' Panel to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the Battle of Ashland.

Twelve die on Kentucky roadways last week

Preliminary statistics* indicate that 12 people died in 12 separate crashes on Kentucky's roadways from Monday, Aug. 27 through Monday, Sept. 3, 2012.

Seven of the victims were traveling in motor vehicles and five were not wearing seat belts. One single fatality crash occurred in each of the following counties: Fayette, Floyd, Hardin, Jefferson, Laurel, Madison and Metcalfe. The crash in Laurel County involved the use of alcohol.

Two fatalities were the result of motorcycle crashes: one in Jefferson County and one in Rowan County. The victim in Rowan County was not wearing a helmet.

Two fatalities were the result of ATV crashes: one in Knott County and one in Pike County. Both victims were not wearing helmets. The crash in Knott County involved the use of alcohol.

One bicycle rider was killed in Fayette County.

Through Sept. 3, preliminary statistics* indicate that 481 people have lost their lives on Kentucky roadways during 2012. This is two less than reported for this time period in 2011. Of the 377 motor vehicle fatalities, 215 victims were not wearing seat belts. Of the 57 motorcycle fatalities, 29 were not wearing a helmet. Five of the six ATV fatalities were not wearing a helmet. Thirty-seven pedestrians, one scooter/moped rider and three bicycle riders have been killed. A total of 82 fatalities have resulted from crashes involving the suspected use of alcohol.

Citizens can contribute to highway safety by reporting erratic drivers to the Kentucky State Police toll-free at 1-800-222-5555. Callers will remain anonymous and should give a description of the vehicle, location, direction of travel and license number if possible.

 These statistics are still preliminary as KSP waits for all local law enforcement agencies throughout the state to report any crashes and fatalities that may have occurred in their areas.*

September term of Clinton Circuit Court held last Wednesday

The first monthly session of Clinton Circuit Court was conducted last Wednesday, September 5 with special judge James M. Bowling presiding. Several cases involved plea agreements and revocation hearings and a few trial dates were docketed.

The following are cases in which some type of resolution was made:

* Sentencing was held in the case of Commonwealth vs. Tyler E. White, pursuant to a plea agreement effectuated on July 27.

The defendant entered a guilty plea to possession of a meth precursor and received a five-year sentence, and guilty of possession of a controlled substance (meth) with a one-year sentence, to run consecutive for a total of six years. The sentence is to be probated for five years with supervision and he will receive credit for time served as to be determined by the Kentucky Department of Corrections.

Under terms of the agreement, charges of manufacturing methamphetamine and possession of drug paraphernalia were dismissed.

* During a review, a plea agreement was reached granting pretrial diversion in the case of Commonwealth vs. Carla Moles.

Upon a plea of guilty to possession of a meth precursor, the defendant would receive a three-year sentence, pretrial diverted for five years with supervision and receive credit for any time served. Also, charges of possession of a controlled substance first degree (meth) and manufacturing methamphetamine would be dismissed.

* During a pretrial conference, a plea agreement was reached in the case of Commonwealth vs. Ricky Dewayne Jones.

Upon a plea of guilty to theft by unlawful taking over $500 and persistent felony offender second degree, the defendant would receive a seven and-one-half year sentence, probated for five years with supervision and be assessed by a Social Services clinician and follow any recommended treatment.

Final sentencing was scheduled for October 22.

* A revocation hearing was held in the case of Commonwealth vs. Cassie Renae Hutchins, pursuant to a prosecution motion requesting probation be revoked.

The defendant acknowledged that she was sentenced for the charge of possession of a controlled substance first degree (two counts) and received a three-year sentence on each count to run concurrent for three years, probated for three years. As part of the probation, she was to enter and complete the Clinton County Drug Court Program. She acknowledged she was terminated from the program, thus the court revoked probation and credited the defendant for any time served.

* Sentencing was held in the case of Commonwealth vs. Brandon Hall, pursuant to an agreement effectuated on August 1.

The defendant entered a plea of guilty to flagrant nonsupport with a five-year sentence imposed, probated for five years without supervision, with the defendant to pay support payments and arrearage. He will also receive credit for any time served as to be determined by the Kentucky Department of Corrections.

* Sentencing was held in the case of Commonwealth vs. Bethany J. Groce, pursuant to an agreement effectuated on July 27.

The defendant entered a plea of guilty to possession of a meth precursor with a five-year sentence imposed, probated for five years with supervision and received credit for time served as determined by the Department of Corrections. She will also be referred to the Social Service Clinician. Under terms of the agreement, charges of manufacturing methamphetamine, possession of a controlled substance first degree (meth) and possession of drug paraphernalia were dismissed.

* During a pretrial conference, a plea agreement was reached in the case of Commonwealth vs. Terry Joe Dial.

Upon a plea of guilty to rape third degree, the defendant would receive a five-year sentence, serve 225 days in jail, with the balance of the sentence probated for five years with supervision and he would receive credit for time served and have no contact with the victim.

Also under terms of the plea, the defendant was to be released from jail September 9 with final sentencing scheduled for November 19.

* A revocation hearing was held in the case of Commonwealth vs. Frankie Davidson, pursuant to a prosecution request to revoke probation previously granted.

The defendant acknowledged that on December 5, 2011, a sentence on a plea of guilty was entered for him on the charge of complicity to theft by unlawful taking over $500, with a five-year sentence, probated for five years, being imposed. A condition of probation was for the defendant to refrain from the use of drugs or alcohol. He acknowledged that on August 15, he admitted testing positive for hydrocodone and marijuana. The court revoked probation and credited the defendant for any time served to be determined by the Department of Corrections.

* During a pretrial conference, a plea agreement was reached in the case of Commonwealth vs. Carolyn Davidson.

Upon a plea of guilty to the charge of receiving stolen property under $10,000, the defendant would receive a sentence of five years, pretrial diverted for five years, or until restitution of $7,000 is paid in full and a charge of engaging in organized crime-criminal syndicate would be dismissed.

* Sentencing was held in the case of Commonwealth vs. William Paul Daniel, pursuant to a prosecution motion filed August 1 to revoke pretrial diversion.

The defendant acknowledged that on February 7, 2009 he was granted a three-year sentence, pretrial diverted for five years on a charge of flagrant nonsupport, with the diversion to continue until arrearage was paid in full. The defendant further acknowledged that on January 16 of this year, the Commonwealth filed a motion to revoke pretrial diversion and on February 6, it was determined he would enter and complete the Clinton County Drug Court Program in lieu of revocation. He further acknowledged he was terminated from that program on July 16.

The court revoked probation and imposed the balance of the three-year sentence, with any time served credited to be calculated by the Department of Corrections.

* During a pretrial conference, a plea agreement was reached in the case of Commonwealth vs. James Brian Abston.

Upon a plea of guilty to theft by unlawful taking or disposition over $10,000 the defendant would receive a five-year sentence, to run concurrent with another indictment in Clinton Circuit Court and the charges of criminal mischief second degree and persistent felony offender second degree would be dismissed.

Final sentenced is scheduled for October 22.

* A trial date of February 24, 2013 was scheduled in the case of Commonwealth vs. Ada Dicken, charged with two counts of first degree wanton endangerment.

* A trial date of February 25, 2013 was scheduled in the case of Commonwealth vs. Emma Kisha Comstock, charged with three counts of possession of a forged instrument, and one count each of criminal trespass first and third degree, theft by unlawful taking and no operator's license/moped.

* A trial date of November 2 was scheduled in the case of Commonwealth vs. Tommy Claborn, charged with convicted felon in possession of a handgun.

* During a revocation hearing in the case of Commonwealth vs. Gloria Brumley, charged with second degree trafficking in a controlled substance, first offense, the defendant did not appear. The court noted that a warrant of arrest for probation violation had previously been issued.

* During a revocation hearing in the case of Commonwealth vs. Charlie Kay York, charged with burglary second degree and two counts of persistent felony offender second degree, the defendant failed to appear and the court noted that a warrant of arrest was previously issued for probation violation.

A few other cases also came before the court last Wednesday, with one defendant being arraigned, entering a not guilty plea and having a pretrial conference set. A few other cases were continued for various reasons.

President Roosevelt approves military draft

September 16, 1940

On this day in 1940, the Burke-Wadsworth Act is passed by Congress, by wide margins in both houses, and the first peacetime draft in the history of the United States is imposed. Selective Service is born.

The registration of men between the ages of 21 and 36 began exactly one month later as Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson began drawing draft numbers out of a glass blow. The numbers were handed to the president, who read them aloud for public announcement. There were some 20 million eligible young men - (50 percent were rejected the very first year either for health reasons or illiteracy, 20 percent of those who registered were illiterate).

In November, 1942, with the United States now a participant in the war, the draft ages expanded for men 18 to 37 years old. Blacks entered the ranks in 1943.

“Conscientious objector” status was granted to those who could demonstrate “sincerity of belief in religious teachings combined with a profound moral aversion to war.” Quakers made up most of the COs, but 75 percent of those Quakers who were drafted fought. COs had to perform alternate service in Civilian Public Service Camps, which entailed long hours of hazardous work for no compensation. About 5,000 to 6,000 men were imprisoned for failing to register or serve the nation in any form; these numbers were comprised mostly of Jehovah’s Witnesses.

By war’s end, approximately 34 million men had registered and 10 million served with the military.

Jim Bowie stabs a Louisiana banker with his famous knife

September 19, 1827

After a duel turns into an all-out brawl on this day in 1827, Jim Bowie disembowels a banker in Alexandria, Louisiana, with an early version of his famous Bowie knife. The actual inventor of the Bowie knife, however, was probably his brother, Rezin Bowie, who reportedly came up with the design after nearly being killed in a vicious knife fight. Jim Bowie was born in Logan County, Kentucky.

The banker was Norris Wright, the sheriff of Rapides Parish. Bowie had supported Wright’s opponent in the race for sheriff and Wright had been instrumental in turning down a Bowie loan application. After a confrontation in Alexandria one afternoon, Wright fired a shot at Bowie. After which Bowie resolved to carry his hunting knife at all times.

The next year, September 19, 1827, Bowie and Wright attended a duel on a sandbar outside Natchez, Mississippi. Both men favored a different duellist. The duellists each fired two shots and, as neither had been injured, resolved their duel with a handshake. Other members of the groups, who had various reasons for disliking each other, began fighting. Bowie was shot in the hip; after regaining his feet he drew a knife, described as a butcher knife, and charged his attacker, who hit Bowie over the head with his empty pistol, breaking the pistol and knocking Bowie to the ground. Wright shot at and missed the prone Bowie, who returned fire and possibly hit Wright. Wright then drew his sword cane and impaled Bowie. When Wright attempted to retrieve his blade by placing his foot on Bowie’s chest and tugging, Bowie pulled him down and disemboweled Wright with his large knife. Wright died instantly, and Bowie, with Wright’s sword still protruding from his chest, was shot again and stabbed by another member of the group. The doctors who had been present for the duel retrieved the bullets and patched Bowie’s other wounds.

Courthouse and jail report

The grand jury made a written report to the court on the condition of public property. The report said the jail is kept clean, but is badly in need of repairs. It said the courthouse appears to be in fair condition with the exception that some of the records in the county court clerk’s office are wet and repairs should be made to keep them from getting wet and those that are now wet should be dried out and cleaned up. The report also said that the ladies’ rest room is being abused by people getting on the seats with their feet and it may be necessary to employ a woman attendant for this room.

Kentucky Facts and Trivia

Ft. Knox is located south of Louisville and contains 109,054 acres covering parts of Bullitt, Hardin, and Meade counties. It has a population of over 40,000 soldiers, family members, and civilian employees. Fort Knox is responsible for all soldier career management, from swearing in to departing service and is the most multi-functional military base in the United States. It is also home to the Boullion Depository.

Fortifications were constructed near the site in 1861, during the Civil War when Fort Duffield was constructed. Fort Duffield was located on what was known as Muldraugh Hill on a strategic point overlooking the confluence of the Salt and Ohio Rivers and the Louisville and Nashville Turnpike. The area was contested by both Union and Confederate forces. Bands of organized guerrillas frequently raided the area during the war. John Hunt Morgan, 2nd Kentucky Cavalry for the Confederate Army, raided the area before staging his famous raid on Indiana and Ohio, known as Morgan’s Raid.

After the war, the area now occupied by the Army was home to various small communities. In October 1903, military maneuvers for the Regular Army and the National Guards of several states were held at West Point, Kentucky and the surrounding area. In April 1918, field artillery units from Camp Zachary Taylor arrived at West Point for training. Acreage of 10,000 near the village of Stithton were leased to the government and construction for a permanent center was started in July 1918.

The new camp was named after Henry Knox, the Continental Army’s chief of artillery during the Revolutionary War and the country’s first Secretary of State.

In 1933, U. S. President Franklin D. Roosevelt issued an Executive Order which outlawed the private ownership of gold coins, gold bullion, and gold certificates by American citizens, forcing them to sell these to the Federal Reserve. As a result, the value of gold held by the Federal Reserve increased from $4 billion to $12 billion between 1933 and 1937. This left the federal government with a large gold reserve and no place to store it. In 1936, the Treasury Department began construction of the United States Bullion Depository at Fort Knox on land transferred from the military. The Gold Vault was completed in December 1936.

The first gold shipments began in January 1937 and were gradually shipped to the site, including old bullion and newly made bars made from melted gold coins. Some intact coins were stored. The transfer used 500 rail cars and was sent by registered mail, protected by the Postal Inspection Service.

During WWII, the repository held the original Declaration of Independence and the United States Constitution. It held the reserves of European countries and key documents from Western history; for example, it held the Crown of St. Stephen, part of the Hungarian crown jewels, given to American soldiers to prevent them from falling into Soviet hands. The repository held one of four companies of the Magna Carta, which had been sent for display at the 1939 New York World’s Fair, and which, when war broke out, was kept in America for the duration.

As of June 17, 2012, the gold is worth $238.290 billion. The Bullion Depository has become a symbol of an impregnable vault, leading to phrases such as “locked up tighter than Fort Knox”.
